

Hoang Anh Tuan received his PhD in History from Leiden University in 2006. After that, he resumed his position at the Department of History at Vietnam National University in Hanoi, where he now serves as Vice Dean for International and Graduate Affairs. He is the author of Silk for Silver: Dutch-Vietnamese Relations, 1637-1700 (Brill, 2007) and has published articles worldwide on economy, international trade and regional and global integration in early modern Vietnam.