Introduction to the Centre of Asian Studies

The aims and functions of the Centre of Asian Studies are to provide a focal point for the University of Hong Kong in the fields of Contemporary and Traditional Chinese Studies, Hong Kong Studies and East and South-east Asian Studies. The Centre is therefore designed to provide research assistance to Hong Kong University and overseas scholars in these fields; administrative facilities for research, seminars and conferences relating to these aspects of Asian Studies; a forum for postgraduate students to partake in multi-disciplinary and other seminars; publishing facilities for the Journal of Oriental Studies and the results of research in Asian Studies; and the promotion of East and South-east Asian Studies.

The Centre of Asian Studies is an integral part of the University of Hong Kong. Management of the Centre is the responsibility of a Committee of the University Senate. Basic support is provided from the University's budget, through funding of staff positions, maintenance of the Centre's Library, other collections and equipment, and the provision of offices and other services. Additional funds for specific projects and activities are received from various foundations and private sources while 'contract operations', directly financed, are also undertaken.

Acknowledgements for major grants for Centre activities beyond the scope provided by the University budget for the academic year 1981-82 are made to:

The Harvard-Yenching Institute
The Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation
The Japan Institute of Labour
The Lee Foundation
The Lee Hysan Foundation

Several multinational corporations operating in Hong Kong and Hong Kong industrial concerns have assisted with finance and co-operation on business-oriented projects, and fees for contract research and seminars have provided further financial assistance to research activities.

The Centre is, therefore, a facility for the use of (i) members of the University concerned with Asian Studies, (ii) members of the Hong Kong community undertaking university-level research in relevant topics, and (iii) scholars who are visiting the Centre of Asian Studies. Formal affiliation of those using the Centre is granted by the Committee of Management under various designations approved by the University Senate.

The Committee of Management

The Centre of Asian Studies Committee of Management determines and keeps under review the programmes and activities of the Centre. As a committee of the University's Senate, it advises and reports annually to the Senate on all matters regarding the Centre.

Members of the Committee for 1981-82 were Dr. R.L. Huang (Vice-Chancellor), Professor P.G. Willoughby (Law), Professor B. Lofts (Pro-Vice-Chancellor), Professor F.P. Lisowski (Anatomy), Dr. E.K.Y. Chen (Director of the Centre), Dr. L.Y. Chiu (Chinese), Dr. Y.C. Jao (Economics), Dr. C.K. Leung (Geography and Geology), Dr. C.M. Turnbull (History) and Dr. S.L. Wong (Sociology).

Staff

The permanent staff of the Centre comprises a full-time Director, two Research Officers, one Assistant Research Officer, one Administrative Assistant and nine secretarial/clerical staff. One additional Research Officer post has been established as from 1982-83. In addition to conducting independent research within the Centre's prescribed fields of interest, the Centre's permanent staff work in support of and in cooperation with 'Centre Fellows'.

The research staff at the Centre and their project titles for 1981-82 are as follows:

Director: Edward K.Y. Chen, "Multinationals from Developing Countries"

Centre Fellows

Centre Fellows are staff members of the University who have declared their intention to undertake their research as 'Centre Fellows', and who have been so approved by the Centre's Committee of Management. Some Centre Fellows' projects may be supported by Centre funds; for larger projects the Director will advise researchers on how to obtain outside funding.

Research grants of Centre Fellows are administered by the Centre, and Centre Fellows are provided research facilities, limited office space and secretarial services.

At present there are 35 Centre Fellows. Their names and projects are listed below.

Affiliated Members/Honorary Appointments

In addition to research undertaken by Centre Staff and Centre Fellows, the Centre sponsors research of qualified members of the Hong Kong community and, where funds are provided, administers their projects to the same extent as for staff members of the University.

The Honorary Research Fellows based in Hong Kong for 1981-82 and their fields of interest are listed below:

Leo Goodstadt, "Hong Kong and PRC Economy"
James Hayes, "Guangdong Archival Collection"
Y.H. Su, "Chinese History and Literature"
Marjorie Topley, "Hong Kong Anthropology"
Robert Orr Whyte, "Biogeography of China"

Other Hong Kong scholars designated Associates-in-Research for 1981-82 are:

Rosanna Y.N. Chan, "The Impact of economic development strategies on the life situation of ordinary people in Hong Kong"
Maria G. Lau, "Religion in China"
William Meacham, "Nature and role of religion in early Chinese"
Iris Minor, "Hong Kong Magistrates: 1840s-1970s"
Melvin P. Thatcher, "Lineage and State in the Spring and Autumn Period"

Visitors

The Centre of Asian Studies welcomes academic visitors who wish, during their professional visit to Hong Kong, to have an operating base or, perhaps, simply a convenient address. For temporary visits not involving a significant use of Centre resources, formalities are minimal and the scholar is merely designated "Visiting Scholar".

Those wishing more formal association with the University should apply in advance, stating the details of their project and requirements — both for research and for formal association — for the consideration of the Committee of Management and the Senate. Visitors can be designated "Associates-in-Research" or "Honorary Research Fellows".

Visitors and their research projects during 1981-82 were:

Honorary Research Fellows:

Michel Chossudovsky (University of Ottawa), "China and the International Division of Labour"
W.A. Reynolds (University of East Asia), "Organisational Structure and Adaptation of Technology in Factories in China"
Hermann Schubnell (University of Giessen), "Demography of East and South-east Asia"
Daniel Tretiak (York University), "Analysis of Chinese Foreign Ministry Personnel"

Associates-in-Research:

Fredrikke M. Scollard, "Shekwan Pottery in Guangdong Province"
Betty P.T. Wei, "History of Shanghai"
Hiromi Yamamoto (Japan Institute of Developing Economies), "China's Resource-Allocation System in the economic plan"

Visiting Scholars:

Visiting Scholars granted office facilities during the year 1981-82 are:

Ms. Cecilia Bowman (University of Toronto), "True Value and False Value in the Dream of the Red Chamber"
Prof. Gavin Boyd (Arizona State University), "Political Change and Foreign Policies with special reference to Asia"
Ms. Rebecca Chiu Lai-Har (Australian National University), "Socio-spatial Patterns in the Shenzhen Special Economic Zone"
Ms. Clare Hollingworth (Independent Scholar), "The History of the Chinese Communist Party and the Men who rose against Mao"
Ms. Elaine Kurtenbach (Watson Foundation Scholar), "Economic Development in the primary sector in China"
Prof. Lei Jiang (Zhongshan University), "Economics Education in Hong Kong"
Dr. David R. Phillips (Exeter University), "Social Service Provision in the New Towns of Hong Kong"
Ms. Audrey Tsui Heung-Heung (Texas A & M University), "Changing Values in Adult Education and the Family — a study of cultural change in the PRC."
Prof. Yuen Shi-bang (Jinan University), "Training of Economists in Hong Kong"

Visitors are expected to participate in relevant Centre activities and are asked to make their expertise available through informal discussions or otherwise with members of the University and senior students.

Studentship

Under this programme the Centre receives applications from post-graduate students studying for higher degrees at the University of Hong Kong in fields pertaining to the Centre's prescribed areas of interest. The studentship is awarded to a meritorious candidate, who receives a monthly stipend, and who is enabled to undertake his studies in the Centre, and undertake a certain amount of teaching or work in lieu thereof. The studentship holder's degree work is undertaken as usual in a Department and approved by the Faculty, but supervision by a Centre Fellow and activities within the Centre are arranged. This award is normally made only to residents of Hong Kong.

For the academic year 1981-82, the studentship at the Centre was combined with one from the Department of Social Work to award a Senior Studentship to:

Ms. Susan B. Rifkin (Department of Social Work) — "Community Health in Southeast Asia"

Research

The Centre's current research projects as undertaken by its Research staff, Centre Fellows, Studentship holder and visitors have already been listed.

The Centre does some research on a contract basis. For instance the history of the Hongkong and Shanghai Bank is being conducted under agreement with the said Bank, and the collection of Clan Genealogies in Hong Kong and Macau under agreement with the Genealogical Society of Utah. Research on business-related projects are sometimes sponsored by Hong Kong and multinational companies.

In the past, the Centre has also acted as a research base for activities of research groups from overseas. In such cases, the visiting group states its requirements and a formal agreement is drawn up by which the University receives the funds from the sponsoring organization and administers them, employing the necessary support staff (research assistants, translators, clerks) who become members of the Centre staff for the duration of the project. Members of the visiting team are associated with the Centre in the usual ways.

The Centre is also a member of the Association of Development Research and Training Institutes of Asia and the Pacific (ADIPA). In addition, the Centre maintains contact with the International Development Research Centre (IDRC) and the Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD). Regional research activities have been conducted in cooperation with these organisations in the past, and possibilities for future projects are being considered.

Seminar Programmes

The three previously established seminar programmes continued activity during 1981-82. The seminar programmes are essential to the primary function of the Centre as an inter-disciplinary unit bringing together the staff and post-graduate students of the University. They aim to provide the necessary means to encourage group research; to attract an increasing number of scholars to Centre activities; to form a valuable link with the teaching function by enriching the courses offered; and to provide a continuing focus of interest for Centre Fellows. The three programmes are each headed by a Chairman as follows:

Contemporary Chinese Studies (Chairman: Dr. C.K. Leung, Department of Geography and Geology)

Traditional Chinese Studies (Chairman: Dr. L.Y. Chiu, Department of Chinese)

Southeast Asian Studies (Acting Chairman: Dr. C.M. Turnbull, Department of History)

During 1981-82, a fourth programme on Hong Kong Studies was established. Dr. Y.C. Jao, Department of Economics, was appointed Chairman of this programme.

The activities of the seminar programmes are conducted through seminars, workshops, and lectures by participants and visitors. These activities are also meant to augment the Masters' programmes in the University. In 1981-82 several lectures were given by well-known authorities. Seminar series and workshops were also organized on specific topics in the academic year 1981-82. Activities of the various programmes of the year are summarised as follows:

"The Hongkong Bank in Lyon: busy, but too discreet?" by Mr. Claude Fivel-Demoret, Sorbonne, France.

The past year also saw a great deal of interest in China's Special Economic Zones. A group of economists from the Japan Institute of Developing Economies in Tokyo visited the Centre in this regard and discussed this topic with scholars and research staff present.

Activity was also generated by several delegations and scholars from China who visited the Centre of Asian Studies. In October 1981, a delegation of archaeologists from Guangdong visited to discuss matters of mutual interest with scholars here. In December 1981, two delegations, one consisting of members of the Xianxi Institute of Economics and Finance and the Anhui Institute of Finance and Trade, and the other from the Shenzhen Special Economic Zone Policy Research Unit, came to the Centre and met with scholars and research staff members. Later, in May 1982, the Centre received the Beijing Municipal Commission of Science and Technology. A special forum was arranged to inform the members of the Commission of on-going research. During the year, the two Universities of Jinan and Zhongshan sent senior members of staff to observe the training of economists at the University of Hong Kong. In the course of exchange, the Centre's Director, some members of the research staff and some scholars have visited the Shenzhen Special Economic Zone during the past academic year.

The Centre is collecting materials of importance in the cultural history of Guangdong. This archival collection consists mainly of folk literature and other popular materials. The Centre has so far acquired 'Wooden fish books', 'nam yam', ballad, song and puppet theatre, Chinese Medicine, mediumship and Fung-shui books. Several books in these categories were added to the collection during 1981-82.

In collaboration with the Genealogical Society of Utah, the Centre has also acquired several clan genealogies of Hong Kong and Macau. This collection which is housed in the Fung Ping Shan Library, is a valuable supplement to the Guangdong archives.

The Centre also has collections of slides on the Lingnan School of Painting and on Guangdong paintings, films of anthropological interest in Hong Kong, and tapes of Nan-yin Cantonese Narrative Songs. These are available on loan for educational purposes. It is hoped that the Centre will be able to expand these audio-visual collections in the forthcoming years.

A small library consisting mainly of materials on Contemporary China is operated by the Centre. This library is open for consultation by University staff and students, and accredited visitors. The collection housed in this library supplements other such collections in Hong Kong, such as that at the Universities Service Center and the University of Hong Kong Main Library.

A data-bank on various aspects of China is being prepared in the Centre. The data-bank aims to provide a guide to both primary and secondary sources on Chinese politics, ideology, education, economy, agriculture, industry and health care. It will be available to all accredited scholars.

Publications

A. Occasional papers and Monograph series (ISSN: 0378-2689)

This series is designed primarily to enable the results of Centre sponsored research and seminars to be more widely disseminated in as immediate a way as possible. It attempts to ensure that the scholarly community overseas are aware of the important work being done in the University of Hong Kong in the field of Asian Studies.

B. Bibliographies and Research Guides (ISSN: 0378-2689)

There is no 'national' system of bibliographical control of Hong Kong materials, and the Centre is attempting, in a modest way, to fill this gap. The series of research guides and bibliographies is designed to facilitate research, make known research materials available in Hong Kong, and generally to provide tools for scholars in the broader area of Asian Studies. The work of collection, collation, design, editing etc. is undertaken in the Centre of Asian Studies as a service to the scholarly community. In many cases Centre Fellows are involved, and the work may arise initially from their research interests.

The following books were published by the Centre of Asian Studies during 1981-82:

T'ao's Tan-fang chien yuan: a 10th-Century Chinese Alchemical Source Book, by Ho Peng Yoke (in Chinese), 76 pp., 1980, HK$30.00 (paperback); HK$40.00 (hardcover).

Hong Kong: Dilemmas of Growth, edited by Leung Chi-Keung, J.W. Cushman and Wang Gung-wu, 665 pp., 1982 Reprint (Jointly published with the Australian National University), HK$85.00.

Anaesthesia in Hong Kong: evolution and present position, by Z. Lett, 70 pp., 26 plates, 1982, HK$25.00.

The Swinging Pendulum: Science in East and West — with special reference to China, by Ho Peng Yoke, 64 pp., 1982, HK$18.00.

A Study of Lexical Borrowing from English in Hong Kong Chinese, by Mimi Chan and Helen Kwok, 147 pp., 1982, HK$26.00.

Materials Pertaining to Tibet in the Veritable Records of the Ming and Ch'ing Dynasties, by Lo Hsiang-lin (in Chinese), 436 pp., 1981, HK$180.00

CENTRE OF ASIAN STUDIES PUBLICATIONS

An Index to Personal Names in Lu Hsün's Diary, compiled by Chan Ping-leung and Wong Tak-wai, 166 pp., 1981, HK$35.00.

C. Journal of Oriental Studies (ISSN: 0022-331X)

Commencing with the volume for 1980 the Centre assumed the responsibility of publishing the Journal of Oriental Studies instead of the Hong Kong University Press which had done so for many years past. The scope of the Journal is described below:

"The area of coverage of the Journal includes China, Japan, Korea and Southeast Asia; the subject matter includes both traditional and contemporary issues in history, geography, fine arts, language, literature, philosophy, law, architecture, archaeology, economics, political science, sociology and anthropology."

The Journal is published biannually. Contributions from overseas and Hong Kong are welcomed. Commencing with the 1981 volume, one issue of the Journal will be exclusively in Chinese and the other exclusively in English.

A complete list of the Centre of Asian Studies publications is appended. Standing orders are accepted.
