A NOTE FROM THE DIRECTOR

In the past three academic years, the Centre of Asian Studies has been extremely active in pursuing its research function, through the organization of numerous conferences and seminars, through the support of various research projects, and through the publication of at least a dozen monographs and conference proceedings, apart from its regular issues of the Journal of Oriental Studies, the Asian Economic Journal produced on behalf the East Asian Economic Association, and the East Asian Tertiary/Quaternary Newsletter. All the hard-work and dedication of the Centre's staff has been rewarded in the fruition of these activities and by the fact that the Centre has attracted many international scholars of repute, who find the congenial atmosphere conducive to do research. I wish to take this opportunity to thank all the Centre's staff and scholars, both permanent and visiting, for their contributions in enhancing the Centre's reputation and functions in these past years.

The last three years have also signalled some enormous losses for the Centre. The premature deaths of Mrs. Pauline Whyte, which shortly followed the demise of her husband Professor Robert Orr Whyte, the founder of Palaeoenvironment Studies of East Asia in the Centre, and that of Mr. David Bonavia, biographer of Deng Xiaoping and renowned writer on Chinese affairs, have left a great void. But their contributions to scholarship will continue to serve future generations of scholars.

The much talked of brain drain and the transience of Hong Kong has also been the cause of many staff departures. To those who have moved on to greener pastures, I wish good luck and much success.

I look forward to the coming years when the Centre can make further contributions to scholarship through its promotion and undertaking of many more strategic research projects.

INTRODUCTION

The aims and functions of the Centre of Asian Studies are to provide a focal point for the University of Hong Kong in the fields of Contemporary and Traditional Chinese Studies, Hong Kong Studies and East and South-east Asian Studies. The Centre is therefore designed to provide research support to the University's and other Hong Kong Scholars, as well as overseas scholars in these fields; administrative facilities for research, seminars and conferences relating to these aspects of Asian Studies; a forum for members of the University's teaching staff and postgraduate students to partake in multi-disciplinary and other seminars; publishing facilities for the Journal of Oriental Studies and the results of research in Asian Studies; and the promotion of East and South-east Asian Studies.

The Centre of Asian Studies is an integral part of the University of Hong Kong. Management of the Centre is the responsibility of a Committee of the University Senate. Basic support is provided from the University's budget, through funding of staff positions, maintenance of the Centre's library, other collections and equipment, and the provision of offices and other services. Additional funds for specific projects and activities are received from various foundations and private sources while "contract operations", directly financed, are also undertaken.

Acknowledgements for major grants for Centre activities beyond the scope provided by the University budget for the three academic years 1987-90 are made to:

Dr. Pauline Chan, O.B.E., LL.D. (Hon.), J.P., W. Haking Enterprises Ltd.
The Hang Seng Bank
The Institute of Developing Economies
The Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation
Dr. Stephen S.F. Hui
The Lee Foundation
The Lee Hysan Foundation
Mr. Li Ka-shing
The Hong Kong Council for the Promotion of Chinese Culture

The Universities Coordinating Council, Alberta, Canada.
The C.C. Wu Cultural & Education Foundation Fund Ltd.

Numerous other smaller grants were made by individuals and organizations, in support of research undertaken and conferences held by the Centre.

The Centre's current research projects are undertaken by its Research Staff, Centre Fellows, Research Fellows, Research Associates, Studentship Holder and Visiting Scholars. The Centre also does some research on a contract basis. Several multinational corporations operating in Hong Kong and Hong Kong industrial concerns have assisted with finance and co-operated on business-oriented projects, and fees from contract research and seminars have provided further financial assistance for research activities.

The Centre is, therefore, a facility for the use of (i) members of the University concerned with Asian Studies, (ii) members of the Hong Kong community undertaking university-level research in relevant topics, and (iii) scholars who are visiting the Centre of Asian Studies. Formal affiliation of those using the Centre is granted by the Committee of Management under various designations approved by the University Senate.

In the past, the Centre has also acted as a research base for activities of research groups from overseas. In such cases, the visiting group states its requirements and a formal agreement is drawn up by which the University receives the funds from the sponsoring organization and administers them, employing the necessary support staff (research assistants, translators, clerks) who become members of the Centre staff for the duration of the project. Members of the visiting team are associated with the Centre in the usual ways.

The Centre is a founding member of the East Asian Economic Association (EAEA), and acted as the Secretariat for this Association until 1990. In addition, the Centre is a member of the Hong Kong Branch of the Royal Asiatic Society and the Asia Foundation's Asian-Pacific Institutes Network (APIN). The Centre is a regular contributor to the latter's newsletter. The Centre also maintains contact with the International Development Research Centre (IDRC), Association of Development Research and Training Institutes of Asia and the Pacific (ADIPA), the Institute of Developing Economies (IDE), the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD), as well as many overseas academic institutions. Regional research activities are being conducted in cooperation with some of these organisations and possibilities for future projects are being considered.

COMMITTEE OF MANAGEMENT

The Centre of Asian Studies Committee of Management determines and keeps under review the programmes and activities of the Centre. As a committee of the University's Senate, it advises and reports annually to the Senate on all matters regarding the Centre.

Members of the the Committee for 1987-90 were Dr. H.O. Brown (Education), Dr. C.H. Chai (Economics), Dr. P.L. Chan (Chinese), Professor W.I.R. Davies (Children's Dentistry & Orthodontics), Dr. R.D. Hill (Geography & Geology), Dr. Y.C. Jao (Economics), Professor R.Y.W. Kwok (Urban Studies & Urban Planning), Professor F.C.T. Moore (Philosophy), Dr. N.G. Owen (History), Dr. V.F.S. Sit (Geography & Geology), Professor C.M. Turnbull (History), and Professor S.L. Wong (Sociology). Professor Moore was the Chairman until June 1989, when he was succeeded by Professor W.I.R. Davies, and Miss Judy Chung the Secretary. The Director is an ex-officio member of the Committee.

STAFF AND STUDENTSHIP

The permanent staff comprises a full-time Director, three Research Officers, one Assistant Research Officer, one Administrative Assistant and ten secretarial/clerical staff. In addition to conducting independent research within the Centre's prescribed fields of interest, the Centre's permanent staff work in support of and in cooperation with Centre Fellows.

The studentship is a programme whereby the Centre receives applications from post-graduate students studying for higher degrees at the University in fields pertaining to the Centre's prescribed areas of interest. It is awarded to a meritorious candidate, who receives a monthly stipend, and who is enabled to undertake his studies in the Centre, and undertake a certain amount of teaching or work in lieu thereof. The studentship holder's degree work is undertaken as usual in a Department and approved by the Faculty, but supervision by a Centre Fellow and activities within the Centre are arranged. This award is normally made only to residents of Hong Kong.

For the academic years 1987-88 and 1988-89, the studentship was awarded to an M.Phil. candidate, Irene Tong, from the Department of Political Science. For the academic year 1989-90, the studentship was awarded to Betty Yung Lock, an M.Phil. candidate from the Department of Philosophy.

CENTRE FELLOWS, RESEARCH FELLOWS AND RESEARCH ASSOCIATES

Centre Fellows are staff members of the University who have declared their intention to undertake their research as "Centre Fellows", and who have been so approved by the Centre's Committee of Management. Some Centre Fellows' projects may be supported by Centre funds; for larger projects the Director will advise researchers on how to obtain outside funding.

Research grants of Centre Fellows are administered by the Centre, and Centre Fellows are provided research facilities, limited office and secretarial services. There were 40 Centre Fellows in the period 1987-1990.

Qualified members of the Hong Kong community undertaking scholarly research in the area of Asian Studies may be affiliated to the Centre as Honorary Research Fellows or Research Associates. Where funds are provided, the Centre administers their projects to the same extent as for staff members of the University.

The Centre of Asian Studies welcomes academic visitors who wish, during their professional visit to Hong Kong, to have an operating base or, perhaps, simply a convenient address. For temporary visits not involving a significant use of Centre resources, formalities are minimal and the scholar is merely designated Visiting Scholar. Those wishing more formal association with the University should apply in advance, stating the details of their project and requirements — both for research and for formal association — for the consideration of the Committee of Management and the Senate. Such visitors are designated Research Associates or Honorary Research Fellows.

SEMINAR PROGRAMMES

The Centre has four major seminar programmes. They are essential to the primary function of the Centre as an inter-disciplinary unit bringing together the staff and post-graduate students of the University. They aim to provide the necessary means to encourage group research; to attract an increasing number of scholars to Centre activities; to form a valuable link with the teaching function by enriching the courses offered; and to provide a continuing focus of interest for Centre Fellows. The four programmes are each headed by a Chairman as follows:

Contemporary Chinese Studies (Dr. S.L. Wong, Department of Sociology, until August 1989; Dr. C.H. Chai, Department of Economics, from September 1989).

Traditional Chinese Studies (Dr. P.L. Chan, Department of Chinese, until February 1990; Dr. C.Y. Sin, Department of Chinese, from June 1990).

South-east Asian Studies (Professor C.M. Turnbull, Department of History, until August 1988; Dr. R.D. Hill, Department of Geography & Geology, from September 1988).

Hong Kong Studies (Dr. Y.C. Jao, Department of Economics, until December 1987; Dr. Victor Sit, Department of Geography & Geology, from January 1988).

The activities of the seminar programmes are conducted through seminars, workshops and lectures by participants and visitors. They are also meant to augment the Masters' Programmes in the University. Seminars of general interest in Asian Studies are also held. In addition, the Centre provides an informal forum for CAS scholars and Centre Fellows to present research in progress, receive feedback on their work, and learn about the work their colleagues are engaged in, through Brown-Bag Lunch-time Colloquia.

OTHER ACTIVITIES

Exchanges on an academic level continued with various institutions in China. Several visiting Professors and scholars from the Mainland visited the Centre, and presented seminars and lectures.

The Centre houses a collection of materials of importance in the cultural history of Guangdong. This archival collection consists mainly of folk literature and other popular materials, including "Wooden fish books", "nam yam", ballad, song and puppet theatre, Chinese Medicine, mediumship and Fung-shui books.

In collaboration with the Genealogical Society of Utah, the Centre has also acquired several clan genealogies of Hong Kong and Macau. This collection which is housed in the Fung Ping Shan Library, is a valuable supplement to the Guangdong archives.

The Centre also has collections of slides on the Lingnan School of Painting, Guangdong paintings and Chinese temples in Hong Kong, films of anthropological interest in Hong Kong, and tapes of Nan-yin Cantonese Narrative Songs. These are available on loan for educational purposes. It is hoped that the Centre will be able to expand these audio-visual collections in the forthcoming years.

A small library consisting mainly of materials on Contemporary China is operated by the Centre. This library is open for consultation by University staff and students, and accredited visitors. The collection housed in this library supplements other such collections in Hong Kong, such as that at the Universities Service Center and the University of Hong Kong Main Library.

The Centre has identified some important areas for research on which work is on-going. "The History of New Music in China from 1885 to 1985" is one such project. Under the direction of Centre Fellow, Dr. C.C. Liu, much original and pioneering work has been done. In a series of seminars held in 1985, 1986 and 1988, musicologists from Hong Kong, China, Taiwan and the United States have come together to present their work on the tradition and westernization of Chinese instrumental ensemble, the development and interpretation of Chinese art and folk songs, the renaissance of Chinese music, and the musical philosophy of the time. Three volumes have been published on this subject, by the Centre of Asian Studies, covering the periods 1885-1919, 1920-1945 and 1946-1976. Some comparative work with other Asian music has also been done.

Another project of immense importance for Hong Kong, undertaken by the Centre, is the one on Children's Studies. The research done under this study aims to evaluate the current state of health and environment of Hong Kong's children. This will be done through the production of a bibliography surveying both literature and services relating to Hong Kong children, which will be a guide to both scholars and practitioners in the field, as well as through the assessment of certain problems and their inter-relationship, such as the long-term institutionalization of infants, consequences of the educational system, roots of juvenile delinquency, child abuse, etc. It is hoped that this project will be a pilot to the establishment of a resource centre to further research and act as an informed and responsive voice for the future needs of Hong Kong's children.

In collaboration with the Kiel Institute of World Economics in West Germany, the Centre established the Pacific Rim Institute of Comparative Economic Studies (PRICES). The purpose of PRICES is to capture and analyze the ramifications of specific economic developments in the PACRIM region and portray them in a global context. In this sense PRICES will act as an information link between Hong Kong and Europe helping both European and Asian entrepreneurs to reach strategic investment decisions vis-à-vis existing as well as potential locations.

The Centre also co-ordinates a programme with the Universities Coordinating Council of Alberta, Canada, whereby members of Alberta's University faculty working in Asian studies are awarded funds to spend their research leaves in Hong Kong, based at the Centre of Asian Studies.

M.W. BENTLEY (Research Associate)

1. Conflict of Values in Hong Kong Education, 1841-1880

A fundamental conflict of interest exists between missionary teachers and their pupils because of the former's overt and covert bias towards Christianity. The former offer subordinate moral and intellectual values to religious ones whereas morality exists prior to religion and intellectual values are autonomous. Government schools in Hong Kong taught English by using the Bible as a text-book but later abandoned it for secular education.

2. Language, Culture and Education in Hong Kong before 1941

English was chosen as the medium of education in Hong Kong for such utilitarian purposes as (1) to make Christian converts, (2) to produce civil servants, (3) to spread friendly sentiments towards the British Empire by anglicizing pupils and (4) to help commercial interests. The English taught was sufficient only for lowly jobs without access to the best of English literature and a proper understanding of English culture.

3. The Consequences of Educational Policies in Hong Kong, 1841-1941

The restrictive educational policies of Hong Kong produced a Chinese population that was submissive, even subservient, with no freedom of thought and unaware of its loss of human dignity and self-respect. There was no access to high culture as defined by Matthew Arnold and the only freedom left to Hong Kong Chinese was to make money and acquire material possessions — their only measure of individual worth.

Education in Asian Countries

This broad topic encompasses a number of studies such as the advantages and disadvantages of small schools, conducted on behalf of the Commonwealth Secretariat. Data was collected and literature analysed from many countries, both developed and less-developed. A set of training modules on educational planning in small countries was commissioned by Unesco and published in 1987. Asian case studies focused on Burma and China. Study of the policy-related issues and of practicalities of administration of "Multiple-Shift Schooling" was undertaken for the Commonwealth Secretariat. In the Asian context, specific data from Hong Kong, Singapore and South Korea was collected.

Dr. Bray prepared a set of research reports on educational administration in Hong Kong. The resulting publication has helped reduce a major gap in the local literature on this topic. In 1989 on behalf of the British Council/World Bank, a study of the links between science and technology education and economic growth in Hong Kong was undertaken. This was followed in 1990 by a more detailed study of the structure and role of technical education, commissioned by the International Institute for Educational Planning.

1. The Contemporary Chinese Civil Service System

The project will highlight the CCP's role in the management of staffing, training, appraising, compensating, and disciplining China's civil service in the mid-1980s.

2. The Senior Civil Service in Hong Kong

The project seeks to maintain a data base on Hong Kong's top 2,000 civil servants. It also will examine the attitudes to politics and authority of this group.

Poems on Things: Reassessing Aspects of Yongming (483-493) Composition

This study of some generally neglected prototypes of regulated verse (tushi 律詩) explores contemporary and near-contemporary critical writings in search of the earliest theoretical models — and considers the idea of a gap between literary theory and practice. This has general implications for the description of the regulated form, and for the accepted account of its development. When the balance of interpretation is altered to take account of overall structure, and length in particular, room has to be made for social composition and the group of socially composed, new-style poems that centre on the subgenre known as yongwu shi 詠物詩 "poems on things".

Lao-tzu* Learning in the Han Period: Yen Tsun's *Lao-tzu chih-kuei

This paper focuses on Yen Tsun's commentary on the Lao-tzu. Questions of date and authenticity are addressed in the first part of this essay. It is argued that Yen's work may be accepted as a Han product. An examination of the commentary itself shows that it has a strong political emphasis, centering on the transforming power of Tao, the Way. The essay concludes with a discussion of Yen's possible connection with the Huang-Lao tradition.

Hong Kong's Legislative Council: Evolution and Evaluation

The purpose of this research is to describe, explain, and analyze the development of the legislature in Hong Kong. This study seeks first to compare the Legislative Council's development vis-à-vis other colonial legislatures; second, to analyze how effective it has been in performing the traditional legislative functions of representation, law making, oversight, and investigation; third to evaluate the impact of recent reforms to the structure and functionality of the legislature. Particular attention will be given to the role perceptions of the members of the legislature, with a comparison between the views of the three types of members: Officials, Appointed Unofficials, and Elected Unofficials. This comparison will facilitate evaluation of the role of the legislature itself, and as such, provide suggestions as well as a prognosis for the future development of a more representative, accountable and responsive government in Hong Kong.

2. The Muslim Community of Hong Kong: Religious Identity Amid Ethnic Diversity

Lynn T. WHITE III (Honorary Research Fellow)

Policies of Chaos: Organizational Causes of Violence in China's Cultural Revolution

The Cultural Revolution is treated as an unintended result of three administrative policies that the Party used from 1949 to 1966 to implement its social goals: Labels (cadre, rightist) allocated and saved resources; Unit bosses/monitors distributed thin CCP personnel talents; Campaigns scared a mobilized people to unusual behaviour.

2. Shanghai Shanghaied? Uneven Taxes in Reform China

Beijing's fiscal extractions have been arranged not by legal or economic criteria, but on a sharply differentiated place-by-place and year-by-year basis. This finding is consistent with arguments of both Donnithorne and Lardy. The effects on Shanghai housing, transport, infrastructure and entrepreneurialism are explored.

3. The Waning of China's Revolution

"Reforms" should be seen not just as central policies, but as a social pattern. Violence from 1966 to c. 1969 (not 1978) created later pressures for political change. Rural industrialization took profits from the state economy. New media technologies (especially TV) changed what the Chinese people know. The result is that China's revolution is ending.

PUBLICATIONS

The Centre's own publications include a Monographs and Occasional Papers Series, a Research Guides and Bibliographies Series, the Journal of Oriental Studies and the East Asian Tertiary/Quaternary Newsletter. The first two are both irregular series, and often the results of research undertaken by scholars at the Centre. The latter two are both biannuals. In addition, the Centre has also been publishing the Asian Economic Journal since 1987, on behalf of the East Asian Economic Association. In the period under review, the Centre published eleven monographs, six issues of the Journal of Oriental Studies and four of the East Asian Tertiary/Quaternary Newsletter. For a complete list of the Centre's publications, please turn to page 100 of this report.

Listed below are academic publications (books, articles and reviews) by the Centre's Director, Research Officers, Senior Research Fellow, Centre Fellows, Honorary Research Fellows and Research Associates. These publications all appeared in the period from July 1, 1987 until June 30, 1990.
